

Your Life, Your Rights Healthcare

Rights to Healthcare

Everyone has the right to healthcare. This includes physical health and mental health services. Here are your rights to healthcare:

Be treated with dignity and respect

Have free access to an interpreter

Have the same treatment options as everyone else

Have the same access to healthcare as everyone else

Make an appointment with your doctor when you need to

Talk to your doctor about starting or stopping treatment

Make decisions about your health

Get health education to help you make choices

Get emergency care when you need it even if you can't pay

To have your personal health record kept private

You decide who can have access to your health information

You can get your medical records at anytime

Contact the Rhode Island Attorney General's Office to file a healthcare complaint by phone at (401) 274-4400 x1896 or online at www.riag.ri.gov/
