

Your Life, Your Rights

Being Stopped by Police

Every person living in America has rights. This is true no matter if the person is a citizen or not. Some of these rights protect people when they work with law enforcement, including police.

Your rights when you are stopped by police include:

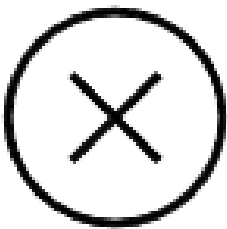

Get info in ways you understand and can use

Be given accommodations if you need them

Stay quiet even if you are asked questions

Say no to having yourself or your things searched

Get a lawyer even if you can not afford one

Not sign anything without your lawyer there

Record the meeting you have with the officer

Make a phone call if you are arrested

File a complaint for broken rights and bad treatment
