Survey for DSPs from the RI State Workforce Initiative

Good Afternoon,

The RI State Workforce Initiative is seeking input from Direct Support Professionals (DSPs) on the current landscape of training and professional development for DSPs. The Training and Professional Development Workgroup is creating a model with a recommended training and onboarding sequence for provider organizations and individuals who self-direct their services to consider in their hiring and onboarding process.

To accomplish this, the workgroup has created a survey and encourages the participation of DSPs. The results of the survey will inform the training and onboarding sequence and help identify what is, and is not, working with regards to the current onboarding process.

The survey is anonymous - no name or identifying information is requested. Participants who work for an organization have the option to share the name of the organization they work for (without any information of who they are). This information will be shared with organizations as a means to assess whether the organization's current training and onboarding process is working.

This survey link is for DSPs (and related job titles). It is for both DSPs who work for an organization and/or DSPs who work for individuals who self-direct their services. We encourage participation. The survey itself takes 5-10 minutes.

The deadline for survey completion is Tuesday, October 31st.
